

ROOSEVELT AT NEGRO SCHOOL

President Spoke At Tuskegee This Morning,
Making a Telling Address.

ALABAMA HAPPY IN HONORING HIM

Colored Boys March Past Him In Review Carrying Stalks
Of Sugar Cane Tipped With Cotton Balls.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Tuskegee, Ala., Oct. 24.—The President arrived on the grounds of the institute after a short stay in town, where he met the officials. At the school he rode in a carriage made by the students. He drove around the grounds to the chapel, where he spoke.

The Address
In addressing the negro students the President said in part: "To the white population as to the black, it is of the utmost importance that the negro be encouraged to make himself the highest type possible of usefulness. The common and skilled labors are needed in the south. It is necessary to train every available man. The professional and mercantile avenues to success are overcrowded. Ignorance is the costliest crowd that can be raised in any part of this union. Despite all the white man does to aid you, no permanent help can save you until you develop the capacity for self-help. You young men and women of Tuskegee must lead your fellows toward sober, industrious and law-abiding lives."

Big Day for Tuskegee
Tuskegee, Ala., Oct. 24.—Today was a gala day in the history of the industrial school which Booker T. Washington has made famous, being memorable by the visit of President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt and the guests comprising the presidential party. The President arrived here this morning over the Western Alabama route from Montgomery and was received by the citizens' committee. His time was divided between Tuskegee and the Booker Washington school. The great feature of the presidential visit for the school was Mr. Roosevelt's address. An interesting feature of the visit of the President was a series of floats, seventy-five in number, which passed in review before him, illustrating the academic, mechanical and agricultural departments of the school and the development of the negro. Nearly fifteen hundred students preceded the floats, each bearing a stalk of sugar cane tipped with a cotton ball, both raised in the experimental station gardens of the institute. After the exercises the party left here for Birmingham, by way of Montgomery, proceeding over the Louisville & Nashville road.

Expectant Birmingham
Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 24.—All preparations are complete and everything is in readiness for the presidential visit. Mr. Roosevelt and party will spend two hours in the city, during which time he will make two speeches.

Togo Did Not Have His Anchor Down For Five Months
Keeps Sailing During That Whole Period Looking for Russian Vessels.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Tokio, Oct. 24.—Bryan was present at a reception in honor of Admiral Togo today. The mayor introduced Bryan to the admiral. The city's reception to the officers and men of Togo's fleet was a great public tribute. It transpired today that Togo did not anchor once in five months, from the time of the battle on August 10 until the Russian Sevastopol was torpedoed late in December.

LIFE SAVERS' LOST; VESSEL IS MISSING

overn ment Crew at Erie, Pennsylvania Go on Mission of Rescue—Do Not Return.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Erie, Pa., Oct. 24.—The crew of the life saving station put out last night to aid a steamer in the offing which was flying distress signals during a tremendous gale. It has not returned and no one or no signs of the life savers nor the ship have been seen. They are thought to be lost. Captain Johnson took with him eight members of the life saving crew.

How to Perfume Laces.
Queen Alexandra's laces, linens and silks are perfumed in a simple and delightful manner, says Home Notes. The drawers in which they are kept are lined with white paper, strewn with rose leaves. A layer of the fabrics to be scented is placed over this with more rose petals sprinkled upon it and so on until the drawer is filled. The result is a delicate perfume, obtained by an inexpensive method, which any woman can copy.

WILL NOT RUN WITH THE SPEED PROMISED

Alice Roosevelt Special Will Cut Down the Proposed Running Rate.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Ogden, Utah, Oct. 24.—The Southern Pacific railway announced this morning the Harriman special bearing Miss Roosevelt and party would not travel in record-breaking time. It will run thirty-nine miles an hour to Omaha instead of fifty-five. It is guardedly stated the request to cut down the rate of travel came from influential friends in the east of certain members of the party. The train reached Ogden at 11:15 a. m. four hours and fifteen minutes behind the original schedule. It left here behind one of the fastest engines in the service. The time from San Francisco was seventeen hours and fifty minutes.

MORE TESTIMONY AS TO LIFE INSURANCE

Actuary of The Mutual Life is on the Witness Stand in New York Today.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
New York, Oct. 24.—Embry McClintock, the actuary of the Mutual, was the witness before the insurance investigation committee today. He said his salary was $25,000 a year. He reviewed the failures and causes in the insurance companies of the earlier seventies.

Committee Wants Facts

The investigators intend also to go into the Mutual's relation to the Brooklyn Wharf and Warehouse company in detail. The Mutual was one of the heaviest investors in the securities of that company, having put in something like $4,000,000. The company didn't make a success of it and was reorganized into the New York Dock company.

TRACY

It was reported that the investigating committee may call Senator Patrick McCarren and even Charles F. Murphy to testify in regard to the affairs of the dock company. This report was discredited by persons connected with the investigation, but it was admitted that efforts would be made to ascertain all the facts in regard to the relation of the Mutual Life to this company and that the inquiry might include an examination into steps that had been taken looking toward the acquisition of the dock company's property by the city.

Adjourn Till After Election

According to reports brought to the attention of the investigating committee, negotiations were opened up by the dock company through Senator McCarren for the purchase by the city of the company's property, which includes a large part of the most valuable water front in Brooklyn. When the negotiations were opened Murphy, it was said, was secretary of the dock board, under Dock Commissioner J. Sergeant Cram.

It was said that the Mutual Life still has hope that it will be able to dispose of the property to the city for $30,000,000. The company has outstanding $10,000,000 preferred and $7,000,000 common stock and $11,589,000 of 4 per cent bonds.

It is likely that there will be only two sessions of the investigating committee this week, as five members of the committee—the assemblymen—are up for re-election and have some hustling to do at home. After the hearings this week nothing further will be done by the committee in the way of a public hearing until after election day.

FOOTBALL MEN ARE NOT DISCOURAGED

Five Hundred of Them March To Practice on Monday Afternoon.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 24.—After only one day's rest from the Chicago game, the University of Wisconsin football team has been started by the coaches on the trail of Minnesota, the game to be played at Minneapolis a week from next Saturday. While no slugging match is expected with the gophers, that game is always harder than the others on the Wisconsin schedule and the badgers will be in better physical condition, it is expected, than when defeated by Chicago. Coaches King and Holt are preparing for a hard match of straight football. They know that the Chicago team was built about the wonder, Eckersall, and prepared to meet it. So the Chicago game was perceptibly a contest where ten players on one side were playing to assist and protect one man, and the efforts of the other team were directed particularly to stop him. The coaches know little about Minnesota, other than contained in the press reports and their general knowledge of the style of Dr. Williams, neither King nor Holt having seen the gophers play this season.

ARE FIGHTING FOR THE HONOR

Report From Madison Says Merry War Is Being Waged for Gubernatorial Nomination.

MANY WOULD LIKE THE POSITION

Administration Clique Is Torn Asunder In The Rush For Office Under The New Primary Laws.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., Oct. 24.—A merry political battle is opening in Wisconsin, in advance by a full year of the state primary election. Already two La Follette republicans have formally announced their candidacy for the governorship and two others are practically certain to enter the race. Senator J. J. McGillivray of Black River Falls was the first to make the bid, and now Speaker I. L. Lenroot of Superior, twice presiding officer of the legislative assembly, has made his announcement. W. D. Connor of Marshfield, chairman of the La Follette republican state central committee, is known to aspire and Lieutenant Governor Davidson has repeatedly told his friends that he will announce himself as soon as the newness is off of Lenroot's announcement. It may be that Mr. Connor will not be a candidate for governor, for it is said that he has been "bought off" with the promise of a clear field for congress, but there can no longer be any doubt but that Lieutenant Governor Davidson has made up his mind. Lenroot seems to be the choice of Governor La Follette, but the administration republicans are by no means in harmony. There is reason here for the statement that Davidson did not know that the announcement of Lenroot was forthcoming when it appeared, and the acting governor was surprised by it. This lack of harmony may be disastrous to the La Follette organization, for if three or four La Follette leaders enter into a race for the gubernatorial nomination, the Spooner or stalwart republicans will doubtless unite upon Senator A. L. Kneutzer of Wausau, and with the united support of that faction would be a likely winner in the primary election a year hence. Should it simmer down to a race between Lenroot and Davidson the stalwarts would doubtless support Davidson.

INDIANA TOWN FIGHTS IN DARKNESS WITH ROBBERS

The Daring Looting Of A Bank In Ridgeville Early This Morning—Party Escaped.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]
Ridgeville, Ind., Oct. 24.—Burglars this morning blew the safe of the Bank of Ridgeville and stole six thousand dollars, escaping with their plunder after a running battle with a posse of citizens. For over an hour the town was at the mercy of the bandits, who walked the streets shooting at everything in sight and apparently taking their time about leaving. The first charge of nitro-glycerine exploded at one o'clock and did little damage. The second was fifteen minutes later and aroused R. C. Branson, who ran to the street, but as soon as he appeared the bandit pluckers fired. Branson retreated to his house for a gun and went to the home of President M. T. Simpson and the two turned in a fire alarm. Meanwhile the thieves had forced the doors of the bank and by the time the citizens were aroused the cracksmen had obtained the plunder. All the electric lights in town were turned on and the citizens attempted to surround the robbers. They did not fire and the men deliberately walked the streets and shot out the lights. Cashier Branson received a flesh wound on the head. The seven men in the party all escaped. They were heard to say that Branson had shot two of them.

PACKERS PLEAD TO CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY BROUGHT

Claim Government Acted Illegally In Securing Their Indictment By Grand Jury.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Right to exemption from prosecution on account of being compelled to give testimony before an investigating body, and the right of freedom from unreasonable search were set up by the packers in their pleas to the five counts on the indictment recently sustained by Judge Humphrey. The existence of an injunction, issued by Judge Grosscup, was also used as a special plea. Three special pleas in bar and a general plea of not guilty were filed. The first plea sets up that the defendants were required to undergo an examination by the Department of Commerce and Labor with reference to the transactions that have since been alleged as unlawful acts of conspiracy in the indictments. This, the defense claims, is a violation of the federal laws, which protect a witness compelled to testify from being prosecuted on his own statements.

The second plea asserts that on March 22, 1905, Captain Thomas I. Porter, who is the head of the United States secret service bureau in Chicago, at the instigation of the United States district attorney and as his agent, without warrant and by force of arms, seized the papers and records of the Aetna Trading company and the Oppenheimer Manufacturing company, and that these papers and books were taken before the grand jury then in session and used as evidence in procuring the indictments. This plea is filed to the third, fifth, and seventh counts.

Another plea, in which all the defendants unite, sets up that an injunction is in force, issued by Judge Grosscup and upheld by the Supreme court, enjoining the defendants from doing the things with which the indictment charges them.

McRoberts Claims Exemption.
Samuel A. McRoberts, assistant treasurer of Armour & Co., filed a separate plea, in which he claims exemption, because he was compelled to testify before the grand jury.

IT IS

AS EASILY-REGULATED AS A LAMP—every door, draft and joint on the famous genuine ROUND OAK Heating Stove fits. Pains-taking workmanship, right principle of construction, with the best material money will buy, are the reasons why this famous stove holds the fire, saves the fuel and satisfies the purchaser.

You take no chances when you decide on a ROUND OAK, no matter what kind of fuel you wish to burn—hard coal (with or without magazine), soft coal, coke or wood.

With the hot blast (used only for soft coal), a steady, even fire is secured which consumes the soot and gases; the double fire pot with cone-center grate with rim discharge, prevents the formation of clinkers.

Think what a satisfaction that is—just shaking the grate cleans the entire bottom of the fire alike.

There is no other stove like it—others are made to look like it, but there the resemblance stops.

Look for the name on the leg, then you will know it is the original, genuine ROUND OAK.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, October 24, 1865.—Judge Noggle resigns.—Judge Noggle of the First Judicial Circuit in this State, has resigned the office of Circuit Judge, to take effect on the first day of December next, for the purpose of returning to the legal profession.

The Eclipse.—The Richmond Times, speaking of the eclipse, says some freedmen, who not having had acquired the useful art of reading and not before been apprized of the performance were seized with mortal terror when the orb of day grew dim, and flapped down on their knees, and put up to Heaven, the sincerest prayers they have uttered since the evacuation. They believed the end of all things was at hand. As the day waned without any of the dreadful explosions supposed to accompany that event, and no sound of the dreaded last trumpet was heard, they gradually recovered their equanimity and returned to their vocations.

The American Minister in England has made a formal demand upon his majesty's government for restitution for damages sustained by our commerce from rebel pirates fitted out in her ports during the late rebellion. It is said that the British Government repudiates the claim but the tone of the English papers generally indicates that they do not believe that the demand can be set aside by one dash of Earl Russell's diplomatic pen. The American people believe the claim is just and ought to be paid, and will stand by their government in forcing England to pay what her false-hearted neutrality cost her merchants and ship owners.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

THE PRETTY FEMALE PERFORMERS IN "LITTLE JOHNNY JONES"

"Little Johnny Jones," which is now the most famous of all musical shows, will be represented in this city at the Myers Grand, Wednesday, Oct. 25, when our theatregoers will have an opportunity of witnessing one of the most mammoth and complete productions, and one of the most musical plays that has been presented for many years. "Little Johnny Jones" comes with the endorsement of all the leading cities, while the metropolitan press has been more than enthusiastic in pronouncing it the most original and entertaining performance of its kind that has ever been presented. New York crowded the theatre for twenty-two weeks last season, Boston for several weeks, Philadelphia four weeks, while in Chicago "Little Johnny Jones" scored the remarkable run of over three months. It is promised that when "Little Johnny Jones" is seen in this city it will have the same production in every detail and the same gorgeous wardrobe that made its engagement in the principal cities notable last year. The company numbers over sixty people, while the cast is made up of many stage favorites. "Little Johnny Jones" is described as a musical melodrama, and in a concise and interesting manner tells the fortunes and adventures of an American jockey who goes to England to win fame and dollars upon the English turf. The play is the product of George M. Cohan, who is the author of both lines and music. Mr. Cohan has written several very great successes, the most notable being "The Governor's Son" and "Run, Run, Run," but in "Little Johnny Jones" he is said to have scored his greatest triumph, and to have given to the stage a musical production which for originality in construction and for the delightfulness of its music easily surpasses any like attempt. The tuneful melody of all of Mr. Cohan's musical numbers is one of the chief charms of "Little Johnny Jones," and for over a year past they have been familiar to nearly all of our music lovers. It is said that no production has been more lavishly staged than "Little Johnny Jones," the three acts representing stage pictures which for massiveness and realism have seldom been equaled. The demand for seats for "Little Johnny Jones" has been of such huge proportions that a crowded house is already assured.

Logger's Queer Language.

"Terms Used in Forestry and Logging," just published as bulletin 61 of the Bureau of Forestry, affords the lay reader an insight into a strange vernacular.

Among the logging terms are some truly remarkable expressions. The uninitiated may learn the distinction between a "ball hooter" and a "boom rat," between a "bull cook" and a "cat-tyman," and find that none refers to a lesser animal than the logger himself.

Among other creatures of the camp may be numbered also the "alligator," the "dolphin," the "dog," the "pig," and the "road donkey," all objects endowed with life by the vernacular.

The "alligator" is a boat used in handling logs; the "dog," a short, heavy piece of steel; the "pig," a rigging sled, and the "road donkey," a donkey engine mounted on a heavy sled.

Birds are represented by the "blue jay" and the "rooster," reptiles by the "snake," and insects by the "katydids."—New York Times.

HOLDS HEAD IN BOILING WATER

Aged Woman at Kalamazoo Finds New Way to End Life.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 24.—Mrs. E. Champlin, 33, resident of Three Rivers, Mich., committed suicide at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Pentland, by placing her head in a kettle filled with boiling water. Life was extinct when the body was found and the head was still in the iron kettle. The woman's features were fearfully burned. Mrs. Champlin's aged husband died about four months ago after a lingering illness. A few years ago the couple, together with a number of other old people of Three Rivers, joined a religious sect known as the "Mind Healers." A representative of the cult visited the village and interested many of the wealthy residents. The followers believed that all illness originated in the mind and no medicine was taken. Mr. Champlin died without medical aid.

COULDN'T FOOL JOHNNY TWICE.

One of our best physicians refuses to extract children's teeth, because, he says, it destroys the child's confidence in him and forever afterward interferes with his ability to get that child to open its mouth for throat examination or administration of medicines.

Nine chances to one the parents have told the child that IT WOULD NOT HURT to have the tooth out. The little one has had his confidence abused shamefully when he finds that the extracting hurt him awfully. You don't fool him more than once.

Nobody gets at him again if he knows it. Probably this accounts for the terrors entertained by all when they visit the dentist.

Well, there are dentists who do not violate the feelings of their confiding patients. Effort to prevent pain is sometimes appreciated, as it was yesterday by a lady who, on leaving the dental chair, said: "Dr. Richards, you hurt me THE LEAST of any dentist I EVER had touch my teeth."

SOLID SILVER

Bear in mind that all articles of solid silver make heirlooms. The silver of today will be heavier and show the design better, when it becomes the property of your grandchild, than those pieces you have of your grandmothers, which you prize so highly. POLICY HOLDERS ARE TO ORGANIZE

MEETING OF MUTUAL POLICY HOLDERS LAST EVENING.

PLAN A. PUBLIC GATHERING

Committee Appointed: to Invite All Policy Holders of Mutual Companies to Organize.

That a campaign of education for all holders of policies in mutual life insurance companies is a necessity appeared to be the sense of a meeting of some twenty-five policy-holders held last evening. The meeting was called by several gentlemen who hold Mutual Life policies, to discuss the general conditions. Before it adjourned a committee was appointed to call a general meeting of all policy-holders in the county of all the insurance companies to begin a campaign of education.

Much Interest
The meeting was held last evening in the Jackson block. The recent disclosures of the management of the way in which the McCurdy family was deriving direct benefits from the policy-holders' money was one of the subjects discussed. One gentleman said that while he felt strongly on the subject himself, he was surprised to find how general was the sentiment among other policy-holders. Drastic measures were not thought advisable. The mix-up in the Mutual Life of New York was not considered as a condition peculiar to that company alone, but typical of general conditions existing in all mutual insurance companies. In fact, many of the older policy-holders present expressed their satisfaction with dividends received from this company in the past. And they expressed their opinion that if these dividends were to be maintained in the future a general overhauling of all mutual companies must be demanded. In fact, some very sharp criticisms were passed on mutual life companies a great deal closer home than New York.

Decreasing Dividends
It was brought out that the gradually decreasing dividends in all of the mutual companies has simply been the cause of preparing the minds of the policy-holders to take action. The sensational news emanating from the New York investigation, while portraying only the worst side of the case of the insurance companies and giving them no credit for the enormous amount of good that they have done, will undoubtedly arouse the policy-holders of all mutual companies to a united action which will guarantee more consecutive management and better results in the future.

The Plans
With these views in mind the meeting last night decided to call a general meeting in the near future of all persons holding policies in mutual life companies to meet and discuss the questions presented thoroughly. John M. Whitehead, George S. Parker, Frank Jackman were the committee appointed for this purpose, and it is probable that such an invitation will be issued shortly for a meeting next week. It is to be a campaign of education, in which the Rock county policy-holders are to take the initial step. It is thought that perhaps other counties may hold similar meetings and in this way the policy-holders become educated as to what they really should receive from the companies whose policies they hold.

A Sixth of a Million
The twenty-odd gentlemen who were present last evening at the meeting represented approximately a sixth of a million dollars in policies. Among those who were present were George S. Parker, John M. Whitehead, Frank Jackman, Richard Valentine, E. G. Field, W. B. Stoddard, William Pond, W. J. Skelly, M. G. Jeffers, A. E. Matheson, Rev. Miller, J. O. Woodman, H. Bolton, Philip Norcross and Mr. Kastner.

Action Elsewhere
In comparison to the action taken last night in this city the radical steps urged by a similar meeting in Fergus Falls, Minnesota, is interesting to note. The dispatch published today from that point is as follows: "Sixty-eight policy-holders in the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, who live in Fergus Falls, have organized and issued the following statement of the immediate ends for which the organization, working in conjunction with other organizations, will strive: The retirement of the McCurdy family and their trust. To have been recanted in their trust. To make an effort, looking to the recovery of the life of the company, which have been unlawfully disbursed. To aid in bringing about a reduction in expenses to a reasonable basis. To assist on such publicly in the company's affairs as will enable any policy-holder who desires to do so to ascertain for what purposes the company's funds have been disbursed. To have policy-holders, through committees, maintain a continual interest and supervision over the company's affairs."

PRACTICE OF MAKING BELOIT ASYLUM FOR UNDESIRABLES

Arouses Some Resentment but Chief Scheibel Says It's a Poor Game
That Won't Work Both Ways
Chief Scheibel of Beloit this morning brought a drunk by the name of Dorrissey to Janesville to serve a sentence in the county jail. The same individual, he intimated, had been "shipped" to Beloit but a day or two ago because Janesville didn't want him around. "They keep us busy," those Janesville and Rockford police officers—sending their bad numbers to Beloit, but we manage to get most of them back where they belong again and sometimes send interest," said the officer. He spoke quite cheerfully and intimated that he hadn't any harsh complaint to make against the game.

BRIEF NEWS ABOUT TOWN

City Was Crowded: In a letter received from J. B. Dearborn, written from Atlanta, he describes the immense throngs of people who were there for Roosevelt's visit as huge. He says that many slept in the parks, not being able to find accommodation in hotels or private homes. The south gave the President a royal welcome.

Mrs. Pratt Very Ill: Mrs. Thomas Pratt, whose husband succumbed to typhoid pneumonia after a brief illness yesterday, is also critically ill with pneumonia at her home, 111 South Jackson street, and much alarm is felt over her condition.

O. E. S.: A regular meeting of Janesville Chapter No. 69, O. E. S., will be held in Masonic hall tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. Owing to having rented the hall, this will be our last meeting in this place. We expect to meet with us this occasion some of the grand officers of the state and there will be work exemplified by the first corp of officers, as near as possible. Following the work light refreshments will be served. M. Chittenden, Sec'y.

Drunks in Court: Pleading guilty to the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, August Ludolph this morning paid a fine of $1 and costs in municipal court. John Jackson was fined $3 and costs but his case was adjourned until Nov. 4. William Barnes was fined $1 and costs but his case was adjourned until Oct. 30. Anton Pashl pleaded not guilty and his bail, pending trial, was fixed at $100.

Was Injured: Earl A. Heath, an electrician, sustained severe injuries by the breaking of a ladder, which he was working. He received a cut over the left eye and a bad gash on the left knee. No serious results are anticipated, but he will be confined to his home for some time.

Fine Program at West Side
The West Side theatre presented an exceptionally strong bill last night for the coming week. The Martinellas in their novelty acrobatic act are the feature. Jennings & Jewell do a funny German act and Potts & Harte are good in their musical comedy. The pictures and illustrated songs, together with the other acts, make a clever performance.

Modern Author Uses Quill Pen
George Meredith is one of the group of authors who remain faithful to the old-fashioned quill pen. MUTTERINGS OF A DRUNKEN OLD MAN

Were Mistaken for the Voices of Burglars—Plotting a Raid on the Merrill Saloon.

Fernando O'Dell, a stranger and an old man, gray-bearded and shabbily dressed, was one of the "burglars" who was supposed to be engaged in an attempt to break into the Merrill saloon at 114 West Milwaukee street last night. He was discovered lying on the ground back of the Chinese laundry and muttering strange things and taken to the lock-up by Officer Bear shortly after the statement over the supposed attempt to burglarize the Merrill place had subsided. In municipal court this morning he was given six days' jail for drunkenness. O'Dell told Marshall Appleby, that he and another man had rented one of the rooms vacated by James Sennett and an effort to find their way thither but were unsuccessful. When Ross Merrill and his bartender, unlocked the door and entered the saloon about midnight they were surprised to hear voices in the flat above, which they supposed to be untenant. The idea that burglars were hovering about at once occurred to them. Mr. Merrill hurried to the police station while the bartender stood guard. In the meantime Miles Cox had appeared on the scene and Officer Brown had joined him in a few moments later. The two went to the flats but found no one there and it appears to have been the theory that the "burglars" heard them coming and made their escape through a side window over the roof of the Elmer Maine saloon building.

MANAGER MYERS HAS MADE NEW RULINGS

Curtain Goes Up at Eight-Fifteen—Patrons Must Be Seated Then or Wait.

When "Little Johnny Jones" appears at the Myrta Grand tomorrow night, and the curtain is run up at eight-fifteen no one wants to start anything they cannot finish. Manager Myers has started something which he says he can finish. He has issued an ultimatum to the theatregoers. It is not worded in perhaps as diplomatic language as are the ukases of the Czar or the "Honorable" requests of the Mikado, but to the theatre patrons it is eminently satisfactory. "The curtain will go up at eight-fifteen," says Mr. Myers. "After that time late theatre patrons will be forced to stand or find seats in the rear of the house until the end of the first act. This is imperative. The annoyance of persons being seated after the curtain goes up is to be stopped. Eight-fifteen is the time the curtain rises. I would also like to state that all tickets ordered for tomorrow's attraction must be called for by five o'clock tomorrow. This will avoid delay at the box office in the evening." Aside from the attraction tomorrow evening Mr. Myers calls attention to the engagement of "The Heir to the Hoarah," which appears here on October 31. This attraction is now playing in Chicago at the Illinois Theatre, where it is having a wonderful success. It is a comedy—not a musical comedy.

MOTHER OF TWENTY- TWO "CELEBRATED"

Mrs. Bezek Wilkins Showed Influence of Too Much Rye on South River Street Last Evening.

Mrs. Bezek Wilkins, aged sixty years and the mother of twenty-two children, last evening partook too freely of the flowing bowl in the hope of securing brief respite from the sharp twinges of rheumatism and presently under its exhilarating influence felt impelled to sing grand opera on South River street. That particular thoroughfare being hostile to the Muses, Officer Bear secured a cart and escorted the unfortunate woman to the lock-up. She was quite sober this morning and desirous of joining her husband who is working out in the country. After being given a lecture by Marshall Appleby she was released.

Do not miss our great cloak sale tomorrow and Thursday. We will have to show you an immense line of ladies' popular-priced coats from $10 to $20. Bort, Bailey & Co.

LIGHTNING RODS A FEATURE ON FARMS

Farmers Are Once More Erecting Electricity Catches on Their Property.

Lightning rods are once again in vogue in the farming districts. All through the country the farm houses and barns are being girded with copper wire and a spear of copper pointing heavenward in waiting for the first bolt of electricity that comes its way. It has been years since the work of the lightning rod agent became famous and for a long time the lightning shields were said to be useless. But once again it is being demonstrated that they are really worth something and along with the rods go a guarantee practically insuring the buildings against loss from fire caused by lightning. This is proving the inducement. A large number of barns in the county have been struck by lightning and destroyed by the fire that resulted.

A Communication

...REAL LIVE BARGAINS...

Odd Lots of Kid Gloves worth many times what we offer them for. All colors, all sizes, clasp, button, mousquetaire, and biarritz styles. 3 Lots: 25c, 45c, 85c.

Odd Lots of Underwear--Good qualities; just closing out certain grades that we have discontinued. Now is just the time one needs heavier underwear. They are worth very much more than prices asked. See them in south store on table.

15c and 19c for Children's Vests and Pants.

35c and 39c for Women's Vests and Pants.

48c for Women's Egyptian, $1.00 value Union Suits.

All black, all wool Vests at 59c.

Suits at 98c, values $1.25 to $2.50.

Very Special--To offset a tendency to price cutting of regular lines of Underwear indulged in by certain firms, and to emphasize the Greatness of The Big Store's Stock—nothing in Rock County to compare with it—we will sell Underwear—Vests, Pants and Suits, except Lewis and Munsing, as follows:

50c grade at 45c. 75c grade at 70c. $1.00 grade at 95c.

We will meet and beat all cut prices and give one better qualities--every time. It pays to keep in close touch with this store.

$3.75 for Suits and Skirts--People anxious to economize, who have large families of girls, can save much money by buying these garments. This store never sells trashy stuff, the Suits and Skirts offered at $3.75 all being made of excellent materials and styles good but not the very latest.

Pillow Covers 20c--Lovely striped covers, tassels on corners,—hard to keep them on hand.

Oriental Striped Couch Covers. We have sold many of them at $1.25, but at our special figure they are rapid sellers. Price, 98c.

Lonsdale Cambric 11c. Thousands of yards at 11c. Not a cut price, simply buy them lower than other stores.

Plain Outing Flannels. No one matches the cream that we offer at 5c, and the heavy twill at 11c, or the white, extra heavy, 30 inch, at 12 1-2c.

SILVER COINAGE IS DROPPED

Stock of Bullion Having Been Exhausted the Mint Has Ceased to Turn Out Dollars—Gold on Hand Reaches High Mark.

Washington, Oct. 24.—United States Treasurer Treat, in his annual report for 1905 on the condition of national currency, says that there is a constantly increasing demand for paper bills of the denominations of $10 or under, owing to the expansion and development of the business interests of the country. Notes of larger denominations gradually are being redeemed, smaller bills taking their place.

The coinage of silver dollars, he declares, has been discontinued, owing to the exhaustion of bullion. It is estimated that the maximum circulation of this coin has been reached. In conclusion Mr. Treat says:

"The continued increase in our monetary stock and circulation is one that engages the thoughtful attention of financiers, and also excites a just pride among our people as an evidence of the remarkable growth in the resources of the country. The total stock of money on June 30, 1905, was $2,874,109,864, of which $295,227,211 was held in the treasury as assets of the government, and $2,578,882,653 was in circulation, making a per capita of $31.08."

Exchange Limit is Reached.

Concerning the relative circulation of the large and small denominations of bills the report states:

"The amount of United States paper currency in denominations of $10 and under outstanding June 30, 1905, was $730,782,179, an increase of $14,635,320 during the year. The total increase in these denominations from March 1, 1900, to June 30, 1905, was $187,186,321, or an average of a little more than $31,000,000 each year."

"The amount of United States paper currency of the denominations of $20 and above outstanding at the close of the fiscal year was about $91,000,000, exclusive of gold certificates, and under present conditions the presentation of these notes for redemption in future will be the only resource available to the treasury for supplying the demand for smaller denominations of currency. The larger denominations are received in small amounts only for redemption."

"The limit practically has been reached in making changes in denominations through the process of redemption and reissue. The presentation of large notes for redemption probably will be too slow to meet the demand for small bills."

"During the year there was $637,540,000 of United States paper currency issued and $623,026,000 redeemed. National bank notes aggregating $208,298,760 were presented for redemption."

Miles Rice and Wife Leave Thursday
For California—Dr. W. H. Borden is very ill.

Milton, Wis., Oct. 24.—The friends and parishioners of Rev. A. Hattestad and wife called on them in a body Saturday afternoon in honor of their fifth wedding anniversary and took the occasion to present a valuable remembrance of the event. It was an enjoyable affair.

Dr. W. H. Borden is quite ill with a cold, contracted on a trip to Watertown last Wednesday, complicated with kidney and bladder troubles. At his age, recovery is a matter of doubt. Supt. Borden came from Madison Thursday to assist in caring for him. Harold Bond, son of Prof. John D. Bond of St. Paul, and well known here, has been secured to pitch for the Portland, Oregon, club next season. He was boxman for the Grand Forks team in the Northern league this year and had a fielding average of 900 and batted 310.

Miles Rice and wife leave Thursday for Riverside, Cal., where they expect to spend a year. He has rented his place in the village to M. E. Clarke, who takes possession this week.

C. A. Tracy, of Richmond, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tracy.

Carrier Atherton was on the sick list Thursday and Friday and substitute Gifford covered his route.

A. B. Lanphere and wife left for their home at Hammond, La., today.

Harry Clarke of Brookhead was in the village Friday.

This is the harvest time of the stove dealer and coal barons.

Rev. Geo. W. Burdick of Welton, arrived in the village Friday for a few days' visit.

Attorney Runyard of Kenosha, was entertained by R. W. Clarke last Thursday and Friday. They were classmates in the university.

Mrs. E. M. Green went to Madison Friday to visit friends.

Miss M. A. Flavelle visited in Janesville Sunday.

Born, October 22nd to Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Whitford, a son.

Miss Leona Sanborn spent Sunday in Janesville.

Milton was represented at the Chicago-Wisconsin football game.

Mrs. Eliza Crandall of Abion, visited Milton relatives Monday and Tuesday.

Rev. Aug. Bergmann and wife have been visiting at Owosso, Mich., for several days past.

Mrs. E. M. Dunn came back from Lake Geneva Monday. Mrs. Belknap and son accompanied her.

EVANSVILLE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Oct. 23.—Arch. Deacon Percy Webber began a series of meetings at St. John's Episcopal church Saturday afternoon, continuing four days, the last meeting being on Tuesday evening. Arch-deacon Webber is a very fine speaker. The church is taxed to its utmost capacity at nearly all the services and at the evening meetings there is scarcely enough room for all.

Mrs. B. H. Standish of Minneapolis has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. J. S. Richards.

Editor and Mrs. C. A. Libby and Mrs. T. F. Shurman have returned home after visiting the exposition at Portland and several Western points of interest. They report a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Lovejoy have taken their departure for Manitowish, Colo., where they expect to spend the winter.

Mrs. R. Murwin is visiting her son Stewart and family in Savannah, Ill.

Miss Josephine Nichols of Cincinnati, Ohio, commences a two weeks evangelistic meeting at the Methodist church on Monday, October 30th.

Mrs. Margaret Colby is visiting relatives in Richland county.

Miss Oral Montgomery has been visiting relatives in Beloit since Thursday.

A new cement walk is being laid in front of St. John's church and rectory.

Mr. Lew Johnson of Madison and Miss Retta Miles of Beloit, but formerly of this city, were married in Rockford Wednesday, October 18th.

No Benefit
No Cost.

If you are weak and worn-out—if you are nervous, irritable, have headache, backache, neuralgia, or periodical pains, it is because you have exhausted your nerve force.

If you cannot sleep, and are thus robbed of the rest which nature demands for the restoration of mental and physical vigor, your system will continue to run down.

Dr. Miles' Nerve restores vitality by soothing and strengthening the nervous system, thus inducing refreshing sleep, and imparting strength and vigor to all the organs of the body.

There are very few instances where Nerve will not benefit; if not, your druggist will refund the money.

"When I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve I had a very sore stomach, with pain extending far around on my left side—attended with extreme nervousness. I dreaded to have night come, as it was impossible for me to sleep. Everything I ate distressed me. Before I had finished one bottle of Nerve there was such a change that my husband bought six more, which has restored me to health."

MRS. JENNIE SIMMS
Rushville, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

METHODS OF THE PRIVATE LINES

AS SHOWN BY TESTIMONY OF H. M. EMERSON.

SHIPPERS MADE CONTRACTS

Atlantic Coast Road Could Not Afford $2,000,000 Investment in Refrigerator Cars for 8 Weeks' Business.

(From William Wolf Smith.)

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C.—That the question of the regulation of railroad rates, the relation of private car lines to the railroads, and other questions will be the most prominent subject before congress during the coming session there can be no doubt. Consequently the inquiry now being conducted by the Interstate Commerce Commission into the relations between the private refrigerator car lines and the railroads over which they operate, is the most important proceeding in Washington at this time. Although the inquiry has but fairly begun at least as far as the present hearings is concerned, it is the culmination of a number of hearings held previously at other points throughout the country. Up to the present time it is the opinion of all those who have attended the hearings that the railroads and the private car lines have made a much stronger case than any one expected. On the examination of witnesses for the commission honors were about even, the unfavorable testimony developed in the direct examination being offset by that favorable to the companies on the cross examination. When the railroads and the private car lines put on their own witnesses the testimony will be even more favorable to their contentions. Such is the judgment of those who have followed the case from the beginning.

In view of the fact that much of this correspondence has been devoted to railroad matters, it may not be amiss to say that your correspondent has followed this question for the past five years, and is therefore somewhat familiar with the subject. I well remember when this matter was first before the House Committee on Interstate Commerce some five or six years ago when I represented a great newspaper on the floor of the House. The attention which it then attracted can be estimated from the fact that when I turned in a story to my chief detailing an important hearing at which the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission pleaded for jurisdiction over railroad rates, I was told that it was a matter of no interest as the country did not give a "ginger-snap" what the Interstate Commerce Commission thought or wanted. Since then your correspondent has attended almost every hearing on this subject before the Committees of Congress and now, before the Interstate Commerce Commission, and has seen the cloud which five years ago, was no bigger than a man's hand, grow until it threatens a tornado.

The most interesting testimony to date, given before the Interstate Commerce Commission, was that of Mrs. H. M. Emerson, traffic manager of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, the first witness for the railroads in the case now at issue. The Atlantic Coast Line has an exclusive contract with the Armour refrigerator car line company and as his testimony casts more light on the subject than that of ice dealers and others who are not directly connected with the subject, it is worth giving at some length. When on the witness stand Mr. Emerson testified that the refrigerator charges were published by the Armour Car Lines and the Atlantic Coast Lines had no voice in the matter and had never received any part of the refrigerator charges. Mr. F. Barry, counsel for the Commission, undertook to connect the companies and refrigerator car companies in such manner as to show that the railroads acted as agents for the car companies because the local freight agents forwarded requests from the shippers for refrigerator cars. "Then I suppose," sarcastically remarked counsel A. R. Urion, "if the requests were sent by mail you would hold that the government was acting as the agent for the car lines." Mr.

Emerson testified that it would require from sixteen to eighteen hundred cars to handle the business on his line which lasts about four or six weeks. Such equipment would cost about two million dollars and it could not be used to advantage in any other traffic. Should the crop be destroyed in any year or should there be a shortage in the crop the railroad not being able to use the cars elsewhere would be deprived of a profit on its investment, if it owned the cars.

Mr. Emerson also testified that because of the shortage of cars during the season of 1905 the Armour Car Line Company had already paid to the growers fifty thousand dollars in damages and had other claims to settle, which were all being paid without a single suit. The railroads had paid no claims on this account and did not propose to pay any as it was a matter with the car lines to deal with.

Mr. Emerson will file with the commission an interesting history of the movement of strawberries and small fruits over his line from its inception to the present time. He courteously loaned your correspondent a copy of the same from which the following extracts were taken. In his resume Mr. Emerson will state that the shipment of perishable goods such as small fruits, berries, vegetables, etc., was begun from Charleston, S. C., to New York City, possibly as early as 1877. These shipments consisted principally of strawberries and were handled in what were known as "refrigerator chests" furnished by the shippers. "Some of these chests," says Mr. Emerson, "might properly have been called refrigerator cars as they were mounted on wheels and pulled onto flat cars or in box cars; others were much smaller and could be lifted or moved on hand trucks. The ice box was in the top and the chests were iced before leaving Charleston and as they passed Portsmouth, Va., the movement being by steamers from Portsmouth." At this time the freight rates were determined by the size of the refrigerator chests; later the rates were made per hundred pounds but at all times the classification charges covered only the transportation movement, the shippers making their own arrangement as to refrigeration. About 1879 or 1880 Charleston, S. C. shippers arranged to supply the New York market by securing some six or eight cars from the Seaboard Air Line and fitted these cars with the necessary ice boxes at their own expense. About 1889 or 1890 they commenced growing strawberries on what was then known as the "Wilmington and Weldon Railroad," the berry section being limited to a few sections between Goldsboro and Wilmington, N. C. The California Fruit Transportation company undertook to furnish refrigerator cars and refrigeration for this traffic. The shippers paid the cost of the refrigeration and the railroads participated in the agreement only far enough to collect the refrigeration charges as an accommodation to the shippers and the refrigerator car company. Mr. Emerson filed a table showing that prior to 1884 the refrigeration charges were sixty four cents per crate. This was reduced by 1898 and 1899 to as low as thirty three cents per crate to points south of New York City and including New York City. In 1899 the East Carolina Truck and Fruit Growers Association which includes about ninety per cent of the fruit growers in that section, found the service was unsatisfactory and asked for bids from various car lines for this service. Under these bids the Armour Car Lines—Fruit Growers Express—submitted the lowest bid and as a result the North Carolina Truck and Fruit Growers Association requested the Atlantic Coast Line to make a contract with the Armour Car Lines which was done, and which is now in force. Under this contract the cost of refrigeration was reduced from thirty three cents to twenty one and a half cents.

Mr. Emerson also filed a statement showing that since 1897 the movement of cars over his road had grown from four hundred and twenty five to one thousand nine hundred and seventy-five cars in 1903. In 1905 crates were moved as follows: by express 60,030 crates; by refrigerator cars 453,727 crates; showing that notwithstanding the very much greater cost of refrigeration more than five times as many crates were shipped in refrigerator cars as by express or in ventilated cars.

Mr. Emerson concludes: "In handling the berry crop it has been considered essential to pack a large number of cars at least a week or more before the actual movement begins, as it would be impracticable to move a sufficient number of cars into the territory after the season opens to fill promptly shippers' requisition for cars wanted in the height of the season. The refrigerator cars are placed at the icing station upon a notice to a representative of the car owners, they icing or reicing the cars at the expense of the owners, both as to labor and to cost of ice; the railroad company placing the car at icing stations or loading points only on request of a representative of the owners of the car. The cars are loaded under the supervision of a representative of the car lines and by labor furnished by the car line companies. After the cars have been loaded and started on their journey they are inspected at different points en route by a representative of the car lines. In the territory of the Atlantic Coast Line road the Armour company has established a number of icing and reicing stations and at the greater number of these points, they being far removed from ice manufacturing plants, they have erected large houses in which to store ice."

MISS MARGARET RYAN TO WED DWIGHT VAN AIKEN

On Wednesday, November 1—Both Young People Are Former Residents of Janesville.

Miss Margaret Ryan of North Fond du Lac, formerly of Janesville, who visited with relatives here on Sunday last, is to be married next week Wednesday to Dwight Van Aiken, also a one-time Bower City resident. Both of the young people have many friends in this city.

Clinton L. Heath of Chicago was awarded $10,000 damages in the circuit court at Kankakee, Ill., for injuries received in the Fordham yards of the Illinois Central railroad.

Labor Notes

General Booth of the Salvation Army announces that he has chartered three steamers, which in the spring will sail from London for Canada with emigrants, all of whom will be guaranteed employment.

For alleged violation of an injunction, a Wilkesbarre, Pa., judge sentenced the Wyoming Valley District Trades Council to pay a $500 fine and John J. Casey, the business agent for the council, $250.

The Terre Haute Bartenders' Union has a rule that any member offering to a customer cigars not bearing the label unless they are especially called for, shall be fined.

Under the Victorian (Australia) Wages Board System, employees must not be paid any part of a wage in merchandise.

The Chicago union freight handlers have voted to accept the old wage scale and conditions which have prevailed for two years, and agreements to that effect were made with nineteen railroads against which strikes have been threatened for the past few days.

Iowa's labor commission reports that the more proficient workmen in the organized trades in that State receive about thirty-three per cent more than the minimum scale.

WILLIS COLLINS OF EDGERTON PAYS FINE

Of $1,000 for Tampering with the U. S. Mails—Other Items from That City.

Edgerton, Oct. 24.—Willis Collins, the former rural mail carrier out of this city, who got into trouble with Uncle Sam through tampering with the mails, was fined $1,000 at Madison Friday. The grand jury at La Crosse, before whom his case was taken, returned an indictment against him on the charge of embezzlement of money order funds. The indictment was returned the 5th of October with the 20th set as the date for his trial at Madison. He appeared and pleaded guilty to the charge and was given the above fine as a sentence. The fine was paid by friends.

Word comes from Stoughton that while working at the Maudt Wagon Works, J. L. G. Compton met with a very painful accident Friday. In some manner his right hand became tangled in the machinery and was badly mutilated. It will be some time before he will be able to resume work again. Mr. Compton is a former resident of Edgerton.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hayes of Janesville were Sunday guests of relatives. Mrs. Hannah Hayes and Henry Meyer of Boardman, Ill., arrived Saturday in this city, called here by the serious illness of their sister, Mrs. George Scharfberg.

Misses Anna Bruhn and Blanche Denison spent Saturday in Janesville. Mrs. Geo. Scharfberg, who has been very low with pneumonia, is reported on the gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Clenden Farmen of Janesville, spent Sunday visiting relatives in this place.

A marriage license has been issued to Levi Anderson of Mason City, Ia., and Miss Mary A. Park of Newville. The wedding is set for Wednesday, October 25th.

The easiest way to prepare a quick breakfast is to use Mrs. Austin's Pancake Flour.

As a Result Beloit Young Man Has Been Arrested and Locked Up in Jail.

Gilbert St. John, a Beloit youth, who joined the Ferreri Bros. Carnival company in this city and went with them to Winona, has been arrested by a United States marshal and taken to Madison charged with having sent obscene reading matter through the mails. St. John wrote an indecent letter to a Winona girl, she complained to the United States postal authorities and now he waits his trial in the Madison jail.

Intensive Agriculture Needed.

Brotherhood Register: Farmers frequently grow ninety bushels per acre. Is there any good reason why the average for a state should be thirty-five? This is a question that is pertinent and is one that should be answered by each corn grower. Why does a man get a yield of less than thirty-five bushels. By neglect, carelessness and improper management. Then the reverse of this should be the paramount issue.

Great Land for Horse-Breeding.

Marion Advertiser: Wisconsin farmers and breeders should engage in the horse-breeding industry with enterprise and intelligence. The soils are rich in mineral matter and the drinking water is also strongly impregnated with these substances. Feeding materials are everywhere grown in abundance and being rich in protein and earthy substances, are especially well-fitted for developing horses of perfect frame.

HAVE DRAMATIZED STORY PRINTED IN THE GAZETTE

"In The Bishop's Carriage" is Being Played on One of the Chicago Stages This Week.

Readers of the Gazette who enjoyed the story recently published entitled "In The Bishop's Carriage" may be interested to know that the book has been dramatized since its production in the Gazette and is now having a prosperous run at Powers theatre, Chicago. This story is one of the many that the Gazette has given its patrons in the past year. The present story, "Judith of the Plains"—is one of those stirring western stories that is making a hit among the book-sellers. In the near future when the present story is finished an entirely new detective story is promised of startling nature.

News for the Railroad Men.

A new system of paying its employees has been adopted by the Reading system, of which George F. Baer is president, and seems to be having the effect which the officials of the road had in mind when the change was made. Now the monthly salaries are paid in cash instead of by check, chiefly because the checks were cashed in hotels and saloons.

Travel to the south, even so early in the year, is showing a very gratifying increase. The Atlantic Coast has shown an appreciation of this by enlarging its Pullman service between New York and Jacksonville, Florida, in addition to the all-the-year-round service between New York and Port Tampa.

Plans have been prepared, word is received here, by Northern Pacific engineers for an extensive double-tracking project on the Idaho division of the road. The initial stages will probably be put into effect within the next six months. Estimates of the cost of the project run into the millions.

The St. Paul has bought for $775,000 one hundred and sixty-five acres of property on the water front at Tacoma, Wash. In all, the company has spent more than $1,000,000 for terminal facilities there. Its plan is understood to be to extend its system to Tacoma as rapidly as is warranted by the development of the country between South Dakota and the Puget Sound.

The United States Navy department has awarded the Harriman lines and connections a contract for the transportation of a large number of marines to be sent across the continent en route to the Philippines during the next few months.

As a Result Beloit Young Man Has Been Arrested and Locked Up in Jail.

Gilbert St. John, a Beloit youth, who joined the Ferreri Bros. Carnival company in this city and went with them to Winona, has been arrested by a United States marshal and taken to Madison charged with having sent obscene reading matter through the mails. St. John wrote an indecent letter to a Winona girl, she complained to the United States postal authorities and now he waits his trial in the Madison jail.

Intensive Agriculture Needed.

Brotherhood Register: Farmers frequently grow ninety bushels per acre. Is there any good reason why the average for a state should be thirty-five? This is a question that is pertinent and is one that should be answered by each corn grower. Why does a man get a yield of less than thirty-five bushels. By neglect, carelessness and improper management. Then the reverse of this should be the paramount issue.

Great Land for Horse-Breeding.

Marion Advertiser: Wisconsin farmers and breeders should engage in the horse-breeding industry with enterprise and intelligence. The soils are rich in mineral matter and the drinking water is also strongly impregnated with these substances. Feeding materials are everywhere grown in abundance and being rich in protein and earthy substances, are especially well-fitted for developing horses of perfect frame.

GROWING IN POPULARITY.

The More People Know Newbro's Herpicide the Better They Like It.

The more it becomes known the better it is liked. One bottle sells two, and those two sell four. Newbro's Herpicide is what we are talking about. It cleans the scalp of all dandruff and destroying the cause, a little germ or parasite, prevents the return of dandruff. As a hair dressing it is delightful. It ought to be found on every toilet table. It stops falling hair, and prevents baldness. It should be used occasionally, as a preventive to protect the scalp from a new invasion of the dandruff microbe. Sold by leading druggists. WENT OVER PLANS OF SEWERAGE WORK

Committee of City Council and City Engineer Held a Consultation on 1906 Projects.

With City Engineer Kerch at the city hall last evening the sewerage committee of the common council, consisting of Aldermen Merritt, Brockhaus, and Baumann, went over the work projected by the city for the coming year. The 1906 operations will be conducted largely in the first, second, and third wards. There is an extensive line of sewer to be built on Oakland avenue, in Forest Park, from Main to Garfield avenue, and thence on Garfield to Ruger avenue. Garfield avenue and Jefferson street must be graded before sewers or sidewalks are laid and owners of property in that locality are said to be in favor of making such improvements.

CHAPTER VI.

JUDITH knew that the name of the girl whose letter sent Peter Hamilton vaulting to the saddle was Katherine Colebrook. There had been a deal of letter writing between her and the young cow puncher of late, of which perforce, by a singular irony of fate, the postmistress had been the involuntary instrument. The correspondence had followed a recent hasty journey to New York, undertaken somewhat unwillingly by Hamilton in the interest of certain affairs connected with the settlement of an estate.

The precipitancy of this latest turn of events bewildered Judith; but yet a little while—a matter of weeks and days—and her friendship with Hamilton had been of that pleasantly indefinite estate situated somewhere on the borderland of romance, a kingdom where there is no law but the mutual interest of the wayfarers. Judith and Peter had been pitifully new at the game of life when the gods vouchsafed them the equivocal blessing of propinquity. Judith was but lately come from the convent at Santa Fe and Hamilton from the university, whose honors availed him little in the trailing of cattle over the range or in the sweat and tumult of the branding pen. It was a strange election of opportunity for a man who had been class poet and had rather conspicuously avoided athletics during his entire college course. In pursuing fortune westward Hamilton did not lack for chroniclers, who would not have missed a good story for the want of an authentic dramatic interpretation of his plans. His uncle, said they, who had put him through college, was disposed to let him sink or swim by his own efforts, or, again, he had quarreled with this same omnipotent uncle and walked from his presence with no prospects but those within grasp of his own hand. Again, he had taken the negative of a fair lady more to heart than two and twenty in the habit of taking negatives. Peter made no confidences. He went west to punch cows for the Wetmore outfit. He was a distant connection of the Wetmores through his mother's side of the family.

Judith's convent upbringing had conferred on her the doubtful advantage of a gentleman's tastes and bearing, making of her, therefore, an alien in her father's house. When Mrs. Atkins, who was responsible for her education, realized the equivocal good of these things and saw, moreover, that the girl had grown to be a beauty, she offered to adopt her, but Judith, with the pitiful heroism of youth that understands little of what it is renouncing, thought herself strong enough to hold together a family uncertain of purpose as quicksilver.

In those tragic days of readjustment came Peter Hamilton, as strange to the bald conditions of frontier life as the girl herself. From the beginning there had been between them the barrier of circumstance. Hamilton was poor. Judith the mistress of a household whose thriftlessness had become a proverb. He came of a family that numbered a signer of the Declaration of Independence, a famous chief justice and the dean of a great university. Judith was uncertain of her right to the very name she bore. And yet they were young, he a man, she a woman—eternal fountain of interest. A precocious sense of the fitness of things was the compass that enabled Peter to steer through the deep waters in the years that followed. But the girl paid the penalty of her great heart. In that troublous sea of friendship she was soon adrift without rudder, sail or compass.

Judith was now eight and twenty, and a sculptor would have found a hundred statues in her. Long of limb, deep bosomed, youth and health radiated from her as sparks fly upward. In sunlight her black hair had the bluish iridescence of a ripe plum. The eyes were deep and questioning—the eyes of a young seraph whose wings had not yet brushed the far distant heights of paradise. And yet in this wilderness that was furnishing for woman's love and tears and laughter by a perversity of fate she walked alone.

She was a true daughter of the desert, the child of stark, unlovely circumstance. No well-bred romance of book and bells and churchly benediction had ushered her into being. Her maternal grandfather had been the famous Sioux chief, Flying Hawk; her grandmother a white woman who knew no word of her people's tongue nor yet her name or race. The Indians found the white baby sleeping by her dead mother after the massacre of an emigrant train. They took her with them, and she grew up in the Black Hills country, a white-skinned Sioux, marrying a chief of the people that had slain her people. She accepted her squaw's portion, uncomplainingly—shared cheerfully at squaw's work while her brave made war on the whites, hunted and smoked. She reared her half-breed children in the legends of their father's people and died, a withered crone, cursing the pale-faces who had robbed the Sioux of the buffalo and their hunting ground.

Her daughter, Singing Stream, who knew no word of English, but who could do better beadwork than any squaw in the tribe, went to live with Warren Rodney when he finished his cabin on Elder creek. That was before the gold fever reached the Black Hills, and Rodney built the cabin that he might fish and hunt and forget the past and why he left it. There were reasons why he wanted to forget his identity as a white man in his play at being an Indian. In the first place, of youth and the joy of having come into her woman's kingdom the half-breed squaw was pretty. She was proud, too, of her white man, the house he had built her and the girl papoose with blue eyes. Furthermore, she had been taught to serve man meekly, for he was the lord of creation.

Rodney talked Sioux to her. He had all but forgotten he was a white man. The girl papoose ran about the cabin broom and bare but for the bead jacket Singing Stream had made for her in the pride of her maternity. Rodney called the little girl "Judith." Her Indian mother never guessed the significance of the strange name that she could not say, but made at least ten soft singing syllables of it, in the Indian way. The little Judith greeted her father in strange lisps; Warren Rodney was far from unhappy in playing at primitive man. This recessional into conditions primeval endured for "seven snows," as the Indian tongue bathed it. Then the squaw began to break, after the manner of the women of her father's people. She had begun her race with time a decade after Warren Rodney, and she had outdistanced him by a decade.

And then the Tumlin came from Tennessee to the Black Hills. They came in an ox cart, and the days of their journey were more than two years. They had stopped in Ohio and again in Illinois; they had traveled on and on across half a continent in the wake of a vanishing sky line. The vague westward impulse was luring them to California, but they waited in Dakota that their starved stock might fatten, and while they rested themselves from the long journey Warren Rodney made the acquaintance of Sally Tumlin, who rallied him on being a "squaw man."

Warren Rodney had almost forgotten the sorceries of the women of his people; he had lived so long with a brown woman, who spread no silken snares, Sally's blazes stirred a multitude of dead things—the wiles of pale women, all strength in weakness, fragile flowers for tender handling—the squaw had grown as withered as a raisin.

Now, Sally Tumlin had no convictions about life but that the world owed her "a home of her own." Her mother had forged the bolt of this particular maxim at an early date, and Sally saw from precocious observation that the business of women was home getting, to which end they must be neat and sweet and sparing of speech. After the home was forthcoming then indeed might a woman take ease in slippers and wrapper, and it is surely a wife's privilege to speak her mind. Sally knew that she hated traveling westward after the crawling oxen. Her father and fatherly brother loved the makeshifts of the wagon life. The cabin on Elder creek had a tight roof; Warren Rodney had money in the bank. He had had uncommon luck at trapping. His talk to Sally was largely of his prospects.

Sally knew that the world owed her "a home of her own," and why should she let a squaw keep her from it? Sally's mother giggled when consulted. She plainly regarded the squaw as a rival of her daughter. The ethics of the case, as far as Mrs. Tumlin was concerned, was merely a question of white skin against brown and which should carry the day. Singing Stream knew not one word of the talk, much of which occurred in her very presence, that threatened to pull her home about her ears; but she knew that Sally was taking her man from her.

The white-skinned woman wore white ruffles about her neck and calico dresses that were the color of the wild roses that grew among the willows at the creek. Sally Tumlin's pink calico gowns sowed a crop of nettles in the mind of the squaw. It was the rainbow things, she felt, that were robbing her of her man. All her barbaric craving for glowing colors asserted itself as a means toward the one great end of keeping him. Singing Stream began to scheme schemes. One day Rodney was splitting wood at the Tumlin camp, though why he should split wood where there were two women puzzled the squaw, but the ways of the palefaces were beyond her ken. She only knew that she must make herself beautiful in the eyes of Warren Rodney, like this devil woman, and then perhaps the papoose that she expected with the first snowfall would be a man child, and she hoped great things of this happening.

With such primitive reasoning did Singing Stream put the horses to the light wagon and, taking the little Judith with her, drove to Deadwood, a matter of 200 miles, to buy the bright calicoes that were to make her like a white woman. It never occurred to the half-breed woman to make known her plans to Warren Rodney. In circumventing Sally Tumlin, the man became the spoils of war, and it is not the Indian way to tell plans on the war trail. So the squaw left her kingdom in the hands of the enemy without a word.

Sally Tumlin and Warren Rodney looked upon the disappearance of the squaw in the light of a providential solution of the difficulties attending their romance. They admitted it was square of her to "hit the trail," and they decided to lose no time in going to the army post where a chaplain, an Indian missionary, happened to be staying at the time, and have a real wedding, with a ring and a fee to the parson. The wedding party started for the post, old mother Tumlin fluttering about the bride as complacently as if the ceremony had been the culmination of the most decorous courtship. The cash brother drove the bridal party, making crude jests by the way to the frank delight of the prospective groom and the giggling protestations of the bride. The chaplain at the post was disposed to ask few questions. Parsons made queer marriages in those tumultuous days, and it was regarded as a patent of worthy motives that the pair should call in the man of the gospel at all. To the question whether or not he had been married before Rodney answered:

"Well, parson, this is the first time I have ever stood up for a life sentence." And the ceremony proceeded. Some of the ladies at the post, hearing that there was to be a wedding, dropped in and added the smiles and dutifulness to the rather grim party, among them Mrs. Atkins, who had just come to the post as a bride. They even added a trifle or two from their own store of pretty things as presents to Sally. And Miss Tumlin left the post Mrs. Warren Rodney, with "a home of her own" to go to.

Singing Stream did not baste in her quest for bright fabrics with which to stay the hand of fate. To the half-breed woman the journey to town was not without a certain revivifying pleasure. The Indian in her stirred to the call of the open country. As she drove through the foothill country she told the solemn eyed little Judith the story of the Sioux and what a great fighting people they had been before Rodney's people drove them from their land.

Judith was not quite four when she took this memorable drive with her mother, but the impression of these things abided through all her years.

And when they had come within a mile of Warren Rodney's cabin on Elder creek Singing Stream halted and prepared for the great event of reinstatement. First she made a splendid toilet of purple calico torn into strips and tied about the waist to simulate the skirts of the devil woman. Over these she wore a shirt of buckskin bordered with beads, of many colors and a necklace of elk teeth wound twice about the throat. On her feet she wore new moccasins of tanned elk hide, and these, too, were beaded in many colors. Her hair, now braided with strips of scarlet flannel, hung below the waist. And she walked to Rodney's cabin not as an outgrown mistress, but as the daughter of a chief. The little Judith held up her head and clung tight to the doll. She knew that something of moment was about to happen.

The gala trio, Singing Stream, Judith and Judith's doll, presented themselves at Rodney's house, before which the bride was washing clothes, the day being fine. Sally, as usual, wore one of the rose colored calicoes with the collar turned well in and the sleeves rolled above the elbows. She washed vigorously, with a steady splashing of suds. Sally enjoyed this home of her own and all the household duties appertaining to it. She was singing, and a strand of pale brown hair, crinkly as seaweed, had blown across the rose of her cheek; when she felt rather than saw a shadow fall across her path, and, glancing up, she saw facing her the woman whom she had supplanted and the solemn eyed little girl holding tight to her doll.

Now, neither woman knew a word of the other's speech, but Sally was proficient in the language of femininity, and she was not at a loss to grasp the significance of the purple calico, the beaded buckskin shirt and the necklace of elk teeth. The half-breed walked as a chief's daughter to the woman at the tub, and Sally grew sick and chill despite her white skin and the gold ring that made Warren Rodney her man in the face of the law. The dark woman held Judith proudly by the hand as a sovereign might carry a scepter. Judith was her staff of office, her emblem of authority in the house of Warren Rodney.

Singing Stream held out her hands to Sally in a gesture of appeal—and blundered. Of the chief's daughter, walking proudly, Sally was afraid; but a supplicating half-breed in strips of purple calico, not even hemmed, was a matter for merriment. Sally put her hands on her hips, arms akimbo, and laughed a dry cackle. The light in the brown woman's eyes as she looked at the white, like prairie fires rolling forward through darkness. There was no need of a common speech between them. The whole destiny of woman was in the laugh and the look that answered it.

And the man they could have murdered for came from the house, an unheroic figure with suspenders dangling and a cornucopia pipe in his mouth, sulky, angry and withal abjectly frightened, as mere man inevitably is when he sniffs a woman's battle in the air. The bride, at sight of her husband, took to hysterics. She wept, she laughed and down tumbled her hair. She felt the situation demanded a scene. Rodney, with a marital brevity hardly to be expected so soon, commanded Sally to go into the house and to "shut up."

Then he faced Singing Stream and said to her in her own language: "You must go away from here. The pale faced woman is my wife by the white man's law—ring and Bible. No Indian marriage about this."

But the brown woman only pointed to Judith. She asked Rodney had she not been a good squaw to him.

And Rodney, who at best was but a poltroon, could only repeat: "You got to keep away from here. It's the white man's law—one squaw for one man."

From within came the sound of Sally's lamentation as she called for her father and brother to take her from the squaw and contamination. Warren Rodney was a man of few words. It had become his unpleasant duty to act, and to act quickly. He searched Judith from her mother and took her into the house, and he returned with his Winchester, which was not loaded, to Singing Stream.

"You got to go," he said, and, leveling the Winchester, he repeated the command. Singing Stream looked at him with the dumb wonder of a forest thing. "I was a good squaw to you," she said, and did not even curse him. And, turning, she ran toward the foothills with all the length of purple calico trailing.

International Live Stock Exposition, December 2 to 9, 1905.

Prof. Jas. W. Wilson, of the South Dakota Agricultural College, says:

"The International Live Stock Exposition held annually in Chicago is probably the greatest institution of its kind in the world. It is great on account of its educational value, not only to the enterprising student of the West, but the packer, the speculator and the exporter of fancy stock in the East. Here is the place they come to, a common center, and observe with their own eyes the best in the land. The careful admirer of good stock receives at this time enough information to keep him thinking for an entire year."

It is impossible for one to describe in detail the numerous classes of stock or the number that has been on exhibition in the past, but it is safe to predict that on account of the prosperous condition of the country at large, the show this fall will be greater than ever."

"Every farmer can well afford to attend this show, to make comparisons for himself."

the amateur shooters. Men whom Miss Altherr beat at the traps are recognized as good gunners.

Her first day's score of 73 out of 75 targets attracted close attention to her, but the next performance of 85 out of 100 was better shooting.

She is looked on as the successor to Annie Oakley's laurels.

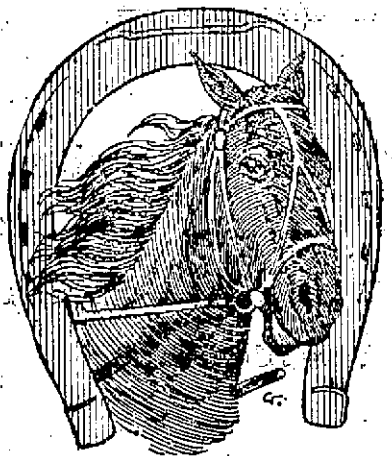

Miss Altherr is the daughter of a well known trap shot and gives promise of acquiring skill that will put her in the front ranks of the women experts at the traps.

The photograph, from which the accompanying picture was drawn, was taken while Miss Altherr was sighting at a target with her double barreled hammerless gun.

In the presence of more than 3,000 enthusiastic followers of harness racing who assembled at the Roadville (Mass.) track recently Audubon Boy paced one of the most wonderful miles ever made, adverse conditions considered. His time for the mile was 1:59.4, equalling the world's record, made by Star Pointer seven years ago. Audubon Boy started to beat 2:00.4 and won; therefore the time made is a technical record.

In making the trial for the record James J. Gatoomb, owner of the chestnut stallion, refused to use a wind shield or to have a running horse draw a cart with canvas attached between the wheels in the lead during the mile, preferring to make the attempt under normal conditions in the same way that Star Pointer gained the world's record of 1:59.4 at the Roadville track seven years ago. Since then Dan Patch has gained a record of 1:56, but this mark was made with a running horse in front to break the natural resistance of the atmosphere.

Audubon Boy's first quarter was made in 0:23 and the next in 0:29.4, making the time for the half mile 0:57.4. The three-quarter pole was reached in 1:27.4, but before this it was seen that whatever the time of the mile Audubon Boy would have to make it entirely unassisted, the pacemaker then being a hundred yards in the rear. Gatoomb did not make a stirring drive at the finish and was 0.31% coming to the wire, making the time for the mile 1:59.4.

As a result of Audubon Boy's performance a match between the east and west is considered probable, Audubon Boy representing the east and Dan Patch the west.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Jamesville People, and What They Say is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mrs. S. L. Bolden of 64 S. River street says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrible dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work and if I did any lifting my bladder became annoyed causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headache which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any too much confidence in them but my daughter got a box at the People's Drug Co.'s store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions."
